"THE TEMPLE WITH A HEART"

Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, then you may prosper in all that you do. . . and not with you alone will I make this covenant. . . but with him who is not here with us today." -Deuteronomy 29:8

The phenomenon known as the Olympics visited us last month and, as always, I have mixed emotions. I arrived in Los Angeles one week before the Israeli Athletes were killed at Munich, and since then, I watch the games with a sense of sadness. This year, though, a question asked of me by Joshua has remained in my mind. He asked, "Who was America against during the 1960s and 70s in the Olympic Games?" I of course replied, "It was our allies and ourselves versus the Soviet Union and her allies." He said, "Now, it's us against China." And he was, of course, right. The final medal count was China 89 medals, 38 Gold, 27 Silver and 23 Bronze and the USA 104 medals, 46 Gold, 29, Silver, and 29 Bronze. When I read that, some of the old feelings from the 1960s and 70s returned, especially to 1972, when the Soviet Union beat us for the basketball gold. I thought about the differences between the Chinese athletes and our team, so I did a little research. On a simple level all the Chinese athletes had Chinese names, but several American athletes had Chinese names, such as: Hsing, Jiadao, Wang, Wu and Zhang. Then, I tracked the medals China won for individual events and the ones they won for team events, Cycling, Gymnastics, Rowing, Swimming, Synchronized Swimming, and Table Tennis.

I did the same for team USA. Who won team medals in Basketball, Beach Volleyball, Cycling, Gymnastics, Soccer, Swimming, Tennis, Volleyball and Water Polo. Here are the results: China individual medals 82, team sports 6. USA individual medals 93, team sports 11. Here is my conclusion: China, with the world's largest population (1,347,350,000), with training and regimen has helped the great athletes of its country achieve the greatest heights, but it has a greater test population to choose from. The USA, on the other hand, has a great level of superior athletes and chooses to help them train for team work and camaraderie and lack/loss of ego so that they perform at a superior level.

This is the key to our country's, and our Jewish Community's, greatness. We have superior people. But we also understand that being the greatest individual does not always bestow on your nation, or your community, the greatest achievement. Superior, gifted people who can strive to contribute without needing individual accomplishment will ultimately bring greater success for all. Each person's unique "flavor" contributes to a cornucopia of aromas that will always be fulfilling to the senses and sensitivities of community. As I look back to the London games, a few memories remain fresh in my mind. . . Bob Costas, NBC Commentator and Anchor, pausing in his introduction of the Israeli team to express his individual moment of silence in memory of the Munich 11, and Aly Reisman, being joined by the spectators'/participants' of the Floor Exercise, final clapping to Hava Nagila, and the NBC commentator saying, "She went to her culture to choose this song." Mr. Costas, saw the loss of life of those athletes as a loss to the Olympic spirit, and hence his personal loss. Those watching the Floor Exercise saw Ally's choice as their choice. In both cases, our culture became their culture. As we enter this new year of 5773, may we remember what we need to make ourselves strong; team work and the willingness to synergize with others! This new synergy will truly fulfill the covenant of America for us, for our congregation and for our community and then this "Goldeneh Medina" will continue to be golden for us.

If you have any suggestions or ideas on how we can better serve our members, call Steve at 661-714-3618 or "Let us hear from you" at www.templebethemet.com

When you don't agree with someone, do you approach the issue in a positive way? I know when you have a disagreement, it may seem like a bad experience, but it doesn't have to be. It can be a growing experience. The bottom line, if a person becomes confrontational, no matter how good you think your argument is, it will cause more harm than good, to allow the encounter to lapse into hostility or resentment. Disagreements are such a small thing in the larger scheme of life. If you don't have your faith, health, family, and friends, what do you really have? Focus on what really matters. On that note, the High Holidays are fast approaching. I want to wish each and every one of you the best for the Jewish New Year. If I have upset you or wronged you in any way, I want to say I am sorry.

Several weeks ago, Temple Beth Emet shared Shabbat services with Burbank Temple Emanu El. There were over 120 temple members in attendance. People loved the experience. As some of you may have heard, my interpretation of the event was that it had synergy. That means, when two or more things function together, produce a result not independently obtainable, the result of this is synergy. What was the reason we did this? There is no secret. There was, and still is nothing to report. The purpose was to get to know our Jewish neighbors. But, if something comes out of this sharing of our collective Shabbat Services, it will be positive for all parties involved. There are congregants who are concerned that there might be unification. First of all, we are only getting to know each other at this time. Speculation only causes needless worry. If we do agree to anything it would not be a takeover on either side. Both temples have something wonderful to offer. If anything happens, it would be a marriage, of sorts. One thing to keep in mind, if it comes to something we can agree to, this will be a slow process. We are not rushing into anything.

TBE has roughly 160 families. Our neighbors up the hill have half that. Of course, we want more members. We need more funds and volunteers. We are not, I repeat not, on the verge of collapse! There are a lot of issues that need to be worked out before anything would happen with our neighbors. I assure you, whatever happens; we will not lose our identity as in Independent Reform Congregation. On the other hand, BTEE will not lose their identity either. There have been several congregations that have merged that are from the Reform and Conservative movements. Nothing can be done by the board. It must be approved by our members. I cannot emphasize enough, nothing is happening at this juncture.

We are going to have a joint Tashlich service at Johnny Carson Park on September 23rd at 4pm. Someone sent me a little something about Tashlich. I thought you might appreciate reading it:

Tashlich originated during the Middle Ages and was inspired by a verse uttered by the prophet Micah:

G-d will take us back in love;
G-d will cover up our iniquities,
You, G-d, will hurl all our sins
Into the depths of the sea. (Micah 7:19)

As the custom evolved it became tradition to go to a river and symbolically cast your sins onto the water on the first day of Rosh HaShanah.*

Any concerns you may have, positive or negative, please email me at: stvabrams@yahoo.com I want to wish everyone a sweet New Year.
