"The Temple With A Heart"

"Let all who are hungry come in and eat,
let all who need come in and make Pesach." Passover Haggadah

The Dalai Lama once asked a group of rabbis, what has kept Judaism alive during its 2,000 years in dispersion. They, of course, answered education of the children in their Jewish Identity, but the rabbis then added a second equally important factor, Family Ceremonies. Well, this year, America joins us. April 2nd is Family day, where the whole country celebrates the value of family. For us, it is the third day of Passover and for our Christian neighbors, it is Easter Monday. Even the banks are telling us to spend time with our families as they are closed.

When I read about this I thought about my different families and how I have celebrated Passover with them. When I was a teenager, my mother would host one Seder, the other one would be with my father's family. Interestingly enough, hers were more traditional, yet my father was the more traditional Jew. My mother is like many of our congregants, not too crazy about organized religion, a spiritualist. One thing, though, always stands out for me about her Seders. We were always to invite non-Jews to our Seder. My mother wanted them to see that our prayers were not so different than theirs.

When I met Mina, I inherited another family, hers. The Persian, American, Hebrew language Seders were and are marvels of linguistic acrobatics, translating from Hebrew to English to Persian and back. But what I remember best about these Seders is the first one, right after I was engaged to Mina. We Ashkenazi were/ are? Forbidden to eat rice at Passover time. I was told because Persians consider themselves Sephardim, they could eat it. I expected something like Chinese white rice, perhaps because I thought, in my Ashkenazi arrogance, that they were guilty about eating rice. What a mistake that was! They served four different types of rice dishes, each with a different allowed vegetable. It was delicious. FYI, the rule of thumb in a Sephardic/Ashkenazi mixed marriage is, whoever is in charge of the Kitchen is in charge of the rice, etc.!

My third family for these 31+ years is my Temple family. I remember the Seders we used to have at a banquet hall on Coldwater and Riverside, sorry, I have forgotten the name. One year, we had it at Temple Beth Hillel when that catering hall had a fire. We stopped having them when we realized that the cost of a catered meal was pricing it out of the range of our people. Several years ago, members of the Temple Board proposed a Community Seder/ Celebration. Prepared and served and hosted by us at Temple. It was to "reenact" the first Seder where people would share a meal and look at their freedoms. It has evolved into a more formal Seder, and grown substantially, but not lost its feelings of family.

What are those things that bring family feelings to our Temple Seders? The first, Freedom! We appreciate people being themselves. "Free to be you and me." Second, Food, we live by the 11th Commandment of Judaism, 'Thou Shalt Not Run out of Food.' Third, Festivity, this is not just a Saturday night pot luck dinner at Temple. It is a reaffirmation that we are still here while many other nations are not, so be happy in who we are !

Fourth, Feelings for Each Other. "Thou Shalt Love Thy Neighbor As Thyself" !

Our congregation takes pride in the differences between our members, which means frankly, we must not merely tolerate these differences but protect them. I have been to other congregations where any step outside of what is considered correct could lead to expulsion, but certainly to isolation.

Members of our Temple Family have committed, time, and to welcoming returning old friends and to new comers to our family. We want all to receive the unique blessings that only a Temple Beth Emet Seder can provide, from the homemade Chicken soup to the CHILDREN'S chocolate covered Matzah reward. Each needs to find their own freedom in food, in festivity and in fellowship. Let us make that happen !

Our family at TBE has grown this year and we the veterans, must teach to the rookies, what is meant by 'the Temple with a Heart' and this heart must always beat proudly, upholding the Four Freedoms for all who enter our gates , Freedom of Speech and Expression, Freedom of Worship, Freedom from Want and Freedom from Fear.

This year whether in your personal Seders, at our Community Seder or during Family Day, remember those who are part of your family, whether DNA, USA or TBE and welcome them into your heart.

B'ahava V'Hag Sameah,

Rabbi Mark

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE – April 2018

I am a member of a business networking group that meets every Wednesday morning at 7:00AM. The group is part a large organization with chapters all over the world. As with any group, members come and go for various reasons, and the effort always has to be made to fill another chair. To that end we organize visitors' days and encourage members to bring guests throughout the year. Right now we are making a concerted effort to raise our chapter membership to 20, which is where historically have been. We have been pushing ourselves to bring one or more guest each. "Each one brings one." Some people have been less successful than other, and some have exceeded all expectation. As our chapter grows, the number of personal referrals each of us gives to the other, either for something we need, or more importantly something someone we know is looking for, grows exponentially. We all prosper.

We need to substantially grow the membership of Temple Beth Emet. The only people who can make that happen is all of us. As our membership grows, the energy and excitement at our Temple will also grow exponentially. If we could double the membership, the liveliness and creativity of our Temple Community would also grow exponentially. Think of the activities we could hold, think of all the new ideas, think of all the new friends. The possibilities are endless, but the possibilities start with each one of us.

"Each one brings one" must be our new way of doing things. Friends, family members, co-workers, even people you meet at the store or anywhere during your day are all potential new additions to our Temple family. As I learned in my business network, you shouldn't try and decide for someone if an organization is right for them, instead have them visit and let them decide for themselves. We know that once someone visits Temple Beth Emet, they are usually hooked!

As I also learned, sometimes, before they visit, people have to be asked more than once. Or nudged gently. Or not so gently. Or cajoled. Heck, even kidnapped. It's for their own good after all. Just as it took me months to go to a business network meeting, it may take a little time to convince people to come to Temple Beth Emet. But when I finally went I found it was something that benefited me, and the people you bring here will find that too. They will say, "I should have done this long ago. Thank you for bringing me."

Right now is the perfect time for you to bring your hostages, I mean guests, to visit Temple Beth Emet. Things quiet down ritually during the Spring, and they won't feel they are being pressured to join with the High Holidays imposing.

"Each one brings one." A pretty simple concept. I'm not asking you to bring someone pen in hand ready to fill out a membership form. Just bring someone, and our loving and welcoming community will work its magic! Imagine how good it will feel when they say to YOU, "I should have done this long ago. Thank you for bringing me."

Wishing you all chag Pesach sameach, a very happy Passover holiday.

-- IRA L. GOLDSTEIN, President

Our 2018 Religious School Purim Carnival was one of our best ever and featured 2 bounce houses, more games and prizes than ever before, plenty of hamantaschen, and both adults and children in costume. We were pleased that so many of our Temple Pre-School families were able to join us, as well. Many thanks to Temple Vice President Ken Watnick for once again providing pizza for our Carnival, to Bar/Bat Mitzvah student Olivia Goldstein who prepared the baked goods for our bake sale and to all of the members of our Parents Association who helped out with both the Carnival and with our Religious School Passover Seder which was held on March 18th. (See photo of Religious School's Children's Seder below.)

Our Adult Education Series "What Does It Mean To Be Jewish" concluded in March with our final class focusing on the question "Does It Take Being Open About Our Judaism?". This year's lively and thought provoking series was better attended than any in recent memory and the generous donations made by our students were able to raise much needed funds for our Congregation. Rabbi Mark is currently considering topics for next year's series, if you have any suggestions feel free to contact him through the Temple Office.

Switching from the story of King Ahashverosh to King Pharaoh and from Hamantaschen to matzah is not so easy when you're two, three or four-years-old! TBE's littlest learners learned Holiday stories and songs and were very creative and artistic in the keepsakes they made. As I write this introduction to the photos that follow, the children are creating Haggadot, Elijah Cups and candle holders for their Seder tables.

Do You Have a Son and/or Daughter In College?

Temple Beth Emet has started a program to connect with our students attending a College. We would like to help them to continue their Jewish way of life and offer them additional support. This way, they will always have an open line of communication with our Rabbi, should they have questions or need direction; and we will remind them of their link to Israel and to keep connected to the Jewish Community. After college, we hope to have them join our Temple, as an adult.

Please send an e-mail and give me the following information:

The name of the Student;

Class Level;

Address;

Name of the University, and;

If the Student is a member of any organization or club on campus.

The Temple will send a care-package for each holiday, as a gift to the Student with a calendar of events at the Temple for each month. The Student will be invited to all events sponsored by the Temple. We would like to encourage the Student to return to the Temple as often as they wish; as the Temple would like to offer itself as a second home and place of Jewish learning. I look forward hearing from you!

Temple Beth Emet - Book Club

We have a wonderful Jewish Book Club at Temple!

Conducted by Fran Bourne-Johnson.

Where: Blum Hall at TBE

When: Tuesday, April 24, 2018 7:00PM to 8:30 PM

What is the book we will read and discuss: The Tempest In The Tearoom, by Libi Astaire

Where to get the book: The book is available on Kindle and Amazon.com, as well as local libraries. Please read the book and be prepared to discuss it.

Cost of Participating: Free!

Synopsis: There's trouble afoot in Regency London's Jewish community, and no one to stop the crimes--until wealthy-widower-turned-sleuth Mr. Ezra Melamed teams up with an unlikely pair: General Well'ngone and the Earl of Gravel Lane, the leaders of a gang of young Jewish pickpockets.

In this first volume of the Jewish Regency Mystery Series, a young Jewish physician is accused of poisoning his wealthy patient, Lady Marblehead, as well as stealing a priceless pearl bracelet from her jewelry box. After more outbreaks of the mysterious ailment occur in the city, an increasingly hysterical Jewish community turns to Mr. Melamed to investigate the case--who in turn enlists the aid of General Well'ngone and the Earl of Gravel Lane to find the real culprit.

But there are too few clues and too little time in this humorous mystery story featuring British detectives who are definitely in a class of their own.

The Book Club will meet on the 4th Tuesday of every month. The group will discuss what the next book will be at the meeting, as well as the format of the discussion group.

You may contact Fran at franbourne@gmail.com or call her at (617) 306-3835.

Fran Bourne-Johnson is enthusiastically inviting you to attend. She will warmly welcome the readers and a lively discussion is expected. The book she is recommending is both exciting and interesting. What a great way to socialize AND improve your mind! Let's get together and share a great reading experience.
