AUGUST, 2010

Rabbi Says:

“Hussan Challah Mazel Tov” (To the Groom and Bride, a good constellation)

People have been asking me about our son Shahri's wedding and, as a good Rabbi, I feel I should tell you all about it. The bride, Adina, is beautiful and intelligent, after all, she picked our son as a groom. The groom is handsome and intelligent, after all, he is our son.

Truly, all Jewish weddings have the same rituals and ritual items, but how they are utilized can be very different. The first thing that was different to me was the attendance of at least 50 of Shahri's fellow students from the Yeshiva. For those of you who don't know my older son, he became an Orthodox Jew sometime in High School and made the commitment to live in, what he calls the "Yeshiva World" three years ago when he moved to Wycliffe, Ohio just outside of Cleveland to learn with a wonderful and very understanding rebbe, Rabbi Brog.

Before the wedding formally began, the customary hors d'oeuvres were served. While the 'regular' guests were eating, a partition was set up so the Yeshiva students could study. Their honor was to bring the study of Judaism to Shahri and Adina's wedding. Several times, I found myself wandering from one room and eating and greeting in the year 2010 and being transported back to the 1800's in Eastern Europe. It was at once intriguing, mind boggling and caressing. Just the fact that these young men had traveled eight hours by car to give Koved to the Hassan and the Challah, will forever warm my heart. But please don't misunderstand, these young men

President's message

I would like to start this report by saying how excited I am to have the honor of being president of this exceptional community, the Temple Beth Emet community.

I would like to thank Ira, our past President, for his mentorship and for the tremendous amount of heart and work he has put into the Temple to ensure it is on a solid foundation. I will work to build on the foundation Ira has laid for our future.

I hope to continue to foster Temple Beth Emet's outreach to the Jewish Community and to establish ourselves as an integral part of our Jewish Community. Our outreach to the non-Jewish Community is also an important part of our Temple. For example, Jerry's involvement with Family Promise is an opportunity for all of us to help those who are homeless start a whole new life and be productive members of our community.

We all are part of a community, Temple Beth Emet's remarkable community. I appeal to all of us, in this difficult economic period, to pull together by volunteering where possible, donating when able and, equally important, by participating in our wonderful community by coming to services and attending events. This, I urge us to do not just for the sake of the membership, but more importantly to honor all the Rabbis and members who have worked so hard to build this Temple over the last 52 years. I would like to have a thriving Temple Beth Emet for our children and grandchildren.

are not at all passive in their Judaism. Their tradition is to march the groom into the bride before the formal ceremony for what is called B'deken or veiling. Since the time that our patriarch Jacob was tricked into marrying Leah due to the fact that she was veiled, Jewish boys have demanded the right to veil the woman they are going to marry. Normally, I perform this ceremony with just the immediate family. The Yeshiva's tradition is to march with the groom to his bride singing loudly as to the joys of life and love and the land of Israel. The ceremony under the huppah is also very different than what I am used to. One of my joys, as with most rabbis, is to speak to the bride and groom under the huppah. Here there was no drash, no advice, and no speech. All that was done is the Sheva B'rachot, (Seven Blessings) done by seven different honored guests, in this case seven rabbis. The other prayers of greeting and of joy were done by the cantor, a young man with a magnificent voice.

As many of you may know, in very orthodox weddings the men and the women dance separately. This was the case. As the ceremony ended and the bride and groom left for some "alone" time, the men adjourned to their side and the women to their side. Once again the men of the Yeshiva led the way. That night, the Hora was the simplest dance I danced. Each young man and there were at least 40 of them, danced before Shari and Adina in routines they had practiced just for the occasion. It wasn't at all what I expected, but truly a series of unique gifts to the bride and groom. We are eagerly awaiting the DVD so we can refresh our memory about these men and women who made the evening so full of love caring and true Shalom. When the dancing and singing ended at around 2:00 AM, we were exhausted, but the young men got into their cars and began the drive back to Cleveland from Brooklyn another 8-hour trip.

But my joy and admiration for those young men and their families who joined us that night is tinged with sadness. Other people who mean a great deal to Shahri and Adina did not attend. I have been in touch with some and truly the reasons given for their absence pale in respect to the love given by people who have only known Shari since he went to Cleveland in 2008 and Adina in 2009. Even though, I learned that night about the many ways Judaism can be interpreted and practiced, one lesson stands out above all. That is the teaching, "V'Ahavta L'reicha C'mocha", 'You will love your neighbor as you want to be loved'. What

I learned that night was you can love someone with your voice, with your arms with your feet or just by showing up and saying Mazel Tov. As we begin the month before High Holy Days, let us remember this lesson. When given the opportunity to share in life's great events, and bring joy to others may we do so with the joy of an open heart. Truly as we give to others, they will give to us.

B'ahava,

Rabbi Mark

What's your story?

People love stories. Kids beg to hear them. Campfires wouldn't be the same without them.

If you have a story you would like to share; maybe some special memories, mitzvahs, or special times, and would like to have it printed in this newsletter, email it to shirleyabramson@yahoo.com or drop it off at the Temple office. We look forward to hearing from you.

Remember the sick with cards, calls and visits

Along those lines it would be great if you could join us when we celebrate Shabbat at Dodger Stadium on August 20. We are also having an end of summer bash on August 28. Please tell all your friends who are interested that we are having an open house on August 29 10am-1pm. Letting as many people as possible know about this event would really help.

Since this is August, I thought I would offer an interesting thought. August 2, 1492 was the Ninth of Av, destruction of the second temple, on the Jewish calendar. On August 3, 1492 Christopher Columbus set sail for the New World even though he was supposed to leave August 31. The last Jew in Spain left August 2, 1492 because they either had to convert or leave. Everyone was on board on August 2, 1492. Was this a coincidence or was Columbus Jewish? We will never know. But, what we do know is that people like Columbus made it possible for us today to have freedom and to be proud of who we are without hiding.

The Men's Club is taking August off! Plan to join us in September for brunch!

Chai Society Happenings

In honor of the 4th of July, Chai Society celebrated its independence from a monthly meeting last month, and now we're wishing everyone a good end of summer & an amazing month of August! August seems the perfect time for a "double-dip," like looking forward to TWO meetings this month, so we can all enjoy our September Labor Day weekend before the High Holidays! As always, EVERYONE IS WELCOME and we hope you will join us for KUGEL, COFFEE & COCOA for the bargain price of $1.00 at either or both August meetings, Sundays at 10 A.M., August 1 & August 29.

Additionally, the Temple's Helen Pappert Gift Shop Boutique is gearing up for a new season, so look for a number of end-of-season items on sale as well as new recently purchased items on display! Please shop & support our Temple for your Jewish gift needs – and tell your friends! Special Thanks to Fran Bernstein for her generous guidance & support, and sharing her knowledge and experience to help in the selection of new items for our Temple gift shop.

Lastly, Stacie has immensely enjoyed serving Chai Society as the "Mitzvah Chairperson" in charge of hospitality & Oneg set-up & serving for our Temple's Bar & Bat Mitzvah families for the past year and a half, but after her daughter Rachil's Bat Mitzvah in July, she is looking forward to passing this honor & responsibility on to a new chairperson. TBE typically helps host 6-10 B'nai Mitzvot each year on Fridays or Saturdays. It's a wonderful opportunity for a parent or parents with children in the pre-Bar/Bat Mitzvah years to see, learn & experience a variety of set-ups & celebrations, while helping our Temple families enjoy their special day! If interested, please contact Stacie Barlow at (818) 461-8161 or Lisa DeLuca at (818) 434-2244.

All the best,
Stacie Barlow for Chai Society

Havurahs!

There are now two amazing Havurahs here at Temple Beth Emet.: Havurah Shachar, which consist mainly of religious school parents, and Simcha/L'Chaim/007 Havurah.

In June, Simcha/L'Chaim/007 Havurah attended the Spring BBQ together where they honored Les and Diane Bender on their retirement.

These Havurahs participate together in synagogue life, share simchas or even sorrows, but support one another throughout. They are close-knit groups within our temple family.

If you would like to join a Havurah or form a new one, contact Ruth Glick at (818)780-9134.
